DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/18/2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the disclosed invention is inoperative and therefore lacks utility.

See prior Office action.

Furthermore, at (A), claim 1 requires the solid content be 20% or less, while the claim also requires at (C) that the solid content is larger than 40%. The solid content cannot be both less than 20% and greater than 40%. It is clearly impossible.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

Art Unit: 1731

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

See prior Office action. Also see the above discussion which indicates that the claim now requires two mutually exclusive things. It also seems that (B) requires a third mutually exclusive thing.

Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as based on a disclosure which is not enabling. Adjustment of the solid content is critical or essential to the practice of the invention, but not included in the claim(s) is not enabled by the disclosure. See In re Mayhew, 527 F.2d 1229, 188 USPQ 356 (CCPA 1976). See the first page of the supplement response filed 20 August 2006 in which applicant admits that it is "necessary to adjust the solid content of the slurry". Since the claims omit this critical step, the method which does not include the step is not enabled.

Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Examiner could find no support for the combination of A, B and C as now required by claim 1.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 4-18-2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

It is argued that the "only possible" argument pertains to Topshiaschvili's ceramics because they have magnetic susceptibilities that render them susceptible to magnetic orientation. This is further evidence that the present invention does not work as disclosed. This is taken to be an argument that Applicant's ceramics are not susceptible to magnetic orientation.

It is argued that (A), (B) and (C) are worded in such a way that the slurry need not be adjusted. This is not persuasive. Applicant clearly admits that adjustment is necessary.

The rest of the arguments are deemed to pertain to the prior art rejection. There is no prior art rejection because the prior art does not reasonably teach using a slurry of characteristics A, B and C.
